

The Lion and the Mouse

Once a little mouse started running up and down a sleeping lion, waking him up. The lion opened his mouth to eat the mouse, but the little mouse offered him a favor in the future in return for sparing him. The lion agreed. Some time after the lion was caught in a trap with ropes tying him down. The little mouse happened to pass by and chewed through the ropes, freeing him.

Little friends
may prove great friends.

Color the picture on the right.

